A 1963 Speech by the Great Oswald Mosley

Leader of the British Union of Fascists (BUF)

I transcribed most of the speech below from a recording found on Internet Archive (link provided with each time stamp).
English not being my mother tongue, it is very likely that a few errors slipped into the text.

Minute 16 :30

Naturally we believe in our own race! Any man or woman worth anything believes in his own race as he believes in his own family. But because you believe in your own race or in your own family doesn't mean you want to injure other races or other families! How often have I said a father of a family should know it is his first duty in nature to look after his own children? Well, that doesn't mean that he wants to hurt or to injure other children! On the contrary! He will do them any good that he can (?).

And our attitude is always the same. Our first duty is to our own people, our British and our European peoples but also, in addition to that, of course, we would do what we could to help other people as well! But we find it out... the lines of policy then being pursued were bound to end in disaster. They talked of what they call ‘multiracialism’. It was simply a universal mixup. Take humanity, put it in a bag, shake it together and Heaven knows what would come out. They wanted to get rid of what existed, all the little grey people of the world who hate the beautiful colored diversity of human development, they always want to get rid of the natural, the noble and the beautiful! They wanted to get rid of it, they wanted to make all nature as grey as themselves! It was their deep (lunacy?).

We were always opposed to that. We said: ‘No, it won’t work and it is undesirable and it shouldn’t work.’ We can live in peace and friendship side by side in separate nations and states of development but we cannot have the mix of the peoples and races who are widely different and divergent. It will lead to nothing but trouble. But in pursuit of their multiracial theory, they not only pursue on that policy in Africa, the results of which you will be able to see in the Congo and I’m afraid you’ll see before long in other places as well… but in addition to that, they brought a tremendous number of colored people without any reason at all over to this country, without any reason except one: they thought that if they were able to persuade the black people in Africa to accept the Whites in multiracial society, they must (compel?) the white people in Britain to accept the Blacks here in a multiracial society as well!

And that was the beginning and the end of the whole policy. A policy which is broken down and has failed in both Africa and in this country as it has been admitted recently in some of our leading journals and by some of our foremost writers and thinkers. It was bound to fail! We foresaw that from the start! And now it is being recognized! After years, there’s a disaster, much bloodshed and quite (incredible?) horrors in the continent of Africa. Well, the same policy, which we could have had by (?), sense and decision from the start is still available to us! It is to divide the white and black populations of Africa, it is to have separate nations living in peace and friendship side by side, let us do every possible thing to help them, send them technicians and the rest of it, give them all the advice they want in order to develop their own civilization! But not to mix them up with us in conditions which are disastrous to us and equal to them! Two absolutely clear and distinct policies and I maintain tonight that the policy for which we've always stood has become entirely justified!

Minute 21 :12

And now that's what they want, what they insist on having! All the multiracial business is breaking down because the black peoples are demanding one man one vote and they're insisting either on the subjection or the expulsion of the White and we say: 'All right!'

Minute 38:15

My friends it's all there, it's all waiting. Of course it can be done; it depends upon ourselves.

You say: "But again, we're scattered individuals. Everything's against us. Governments, money, press, television – all the new forces are used against us." All the great forces, all the material powers of the world, you say, are against you. And so they are – you're quite right to feel that and I don't underrate them – but I don't despair and you shouldn't despair. Because you, like I, have read something of history. You know something of the record of the achievement of the European. And dark as this hour is, it's no darker, it's not as dark as some of the hours you've known in European history.

My friends, when everything was cowardice, treachery, and betrayal, and when the Saracen hordes from far outside Europe swept right across that continent, and would've come on over our own Britain too, if they hadn't been stopped – and it didn't only happen once, it's happened more than once –, small bands of men came together in resolution, in absolute determination, giving themselves completely and saying: "Europe shall live!" and stood firm and faced the menace to Europe, its values, its civilizations, the glory of its achievement, all those things in mortal danger.

And they stood firm, they faced it, they came together, and more and more ran it to their standards, and those hordes were thrown back. Again and again and again, our Europe lived in triumph because the will of Europe still endured!

Or course, and it can happen again, we've got other forces against us – not those particular forces, but the power of money, the power of press in some hands. All those peculiar forces which governments wield today, far more forces of corruption and oppression that have ever been in the hands of government at all, despite all that power, our democracy and our freedom as we know well in our daily political struggle, all those things are against us. But if we can bring together with us enough of people like ourselves, not only in Britain, but as we are doing in other countries of Europe and gradually that force mounts and gathers strength. My friends, today, just as much as in the past, we can meet the dark forces which in another way threaten our European light with eternal night. We can rid of those forces and in the end we can prevail and we can triumph. It's been done before and it can be done again.

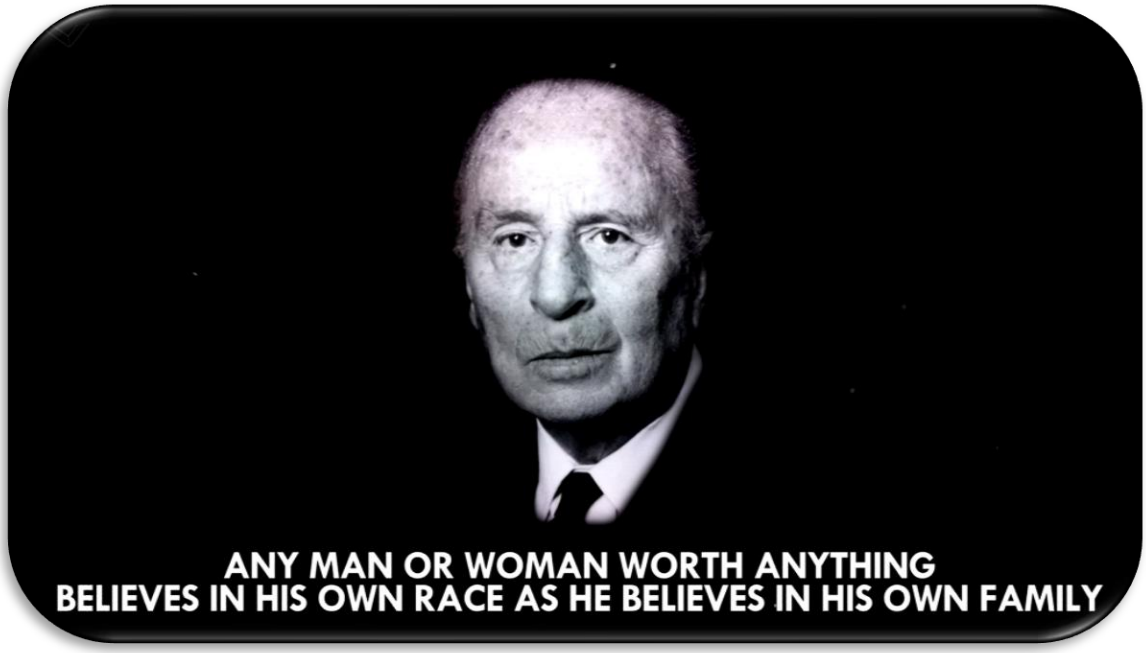
Our task is to do what we are doing. And we began at Venice nearly some 20 months ago as I speak tonight to bring together the best as we saw them of the Europeans, to get them to take decisions together, to decide on the policy which I have described tonight, that they would act and do these things together. First great step, after that, the usual trouble, the difficulty, the struggle to move forward. Always in human affairs the same story. But willpower, endurance and above all faith and belief overcomes all. And my friends, let me say to you tonight: that now in the decisions of Britain, which have been bad in recent years, you have the greatest hindrance in the final achievement of Europe. More perhaps in that respect rests upon you, upon all of us, than any other people because if tomorrow the British people decided to do these things the news of that would go like an electric shock of awakening and of hope right through Europe. Nothing matters so much as awakening our own people. Hard as I labour, in other lands with other friends and comrades of ours, it comes back to Britain, we must bring Britain, with all our knowledge, with our character, with our gifts, with our territories into this immense concern which is going to be Europe and is going to save mankind.

My friends, it's an immense responsibility. You're living in a historical hour. Do remember that always. Live in that sense, I beg of you, of history and of destiny. When that period, this period comes to be written and men look back at it, if we did right, if we stood firm, if we stood greatly, it will be a matter of honour and of veneration for generations to come. I could not ask to live at any other moment of history than this because never has mankind, never has the human species been confronted with such possibilities, with such choices of disaster, or of greater heights and greater glories.

My friends, do live in that sense that you are Englishmen, that you are Europeans, that you come from people who faced tremendous odds again and again. That much is against you but you've got within you that will, that spirit above all, that faith and that belief which will lead the generations to come to look back at you in the pages of history with the proud words: 'To England, to Britain, to Europe, THEY WERE TRUE!'



Oswald Mosley: Europeans – A 2016 Documentary by Speropatria

Sir Oswald Mosley: thread by Uncommon Sense on X

'Every once in a while, the lion has to show the jackals who he is.'

Oswald Mosley

We must secure the existence of our people and a future for white European children. (14/88)
(Sceen shot from ETLB – part 10)

Freedom Truth Justice

Humain souverain English

♡ ❦ ♥